Kristian Bro advises primarily on employment and labour law and on public law.

Having worked with employment and labour law for a number years, Kristian advises on all aspects of the area, including in relation to transfers of undertakings, incentive programmes, collective redundancies, and collective labour law.

He also regularly advises public authorities on various aspects of public law. He is greatly experienced in general administrative law, intermunicipal reimbursement, and investigative assignments.

Kristian communicates in an easy-to-understand manner, cutting through the legal jargon.
